PRETENTIOUS ARRAY OF TALENT
WILL BE OFFERED AT CHAUTAUQUAAnnual Assembly Will be Held in the City Park This Year August

sisting of Noted Soloist, Will

"DICKENS-MAN" IS ON PROGRAM

Such Lecturers as Lincoln McConnell, Madison C. Peters and Edward
A. Ott Will Appear.

Such an array of talent, arranged at such a cost, has never yet been offered to Rushville as is included in the chautauqua program for this year. The annual event will be held August sixth to the thirteenth inclusive and will include eight days, the opening and closing day being Sunday. The program committee has been toiling diligently since the close of last year's chautauqua to employ artists to render a program this year that will far outshine any similar attempts in this section of the State or possibly in the whole State.

The mention of such names as Lincoln McConnell, Madison C. Peters, the Hinshaw Grand Opera Company, Edward A. Ott, Apollo Concert Company, Chautauqua Ladies Orchestra and many other notable numbers, is enough to insure a program of much merit this year. The Hinshaw Grand Opera Company will be by far the most notable musical organization ever heard in this city. Madison Peters is one of the most noted lecturers on the platform today and Lincoln McConnell, needs no introduction here.

The success of the chautauqua is already assured for this year. There are at present eight hundred season tickets sold which is sufficient to guarantee enough money to make the affair a paying one. There is also a small balance from last year's event which has been held in trust all winter.

Rushville should feel justly proud of the chautauqua. There is no city of twice the size of Rushville which has ever made a success of such an event. There are few cities many times as large which have made a success of an assembly. It is also one of the few inland places where the chautauqua is held with profit to all concerned. It was the original intent of such an assembly to have water features and that is carried out in many of the older assemblies.

The chautauqua will open Sunday afternoon at the usual time with a lecture by Edward A. Ott, former president of the International Lyceum Association and one of the best known platform men of today. He will also lecture in the evening. His subjects will be "Heredity" and "Marriage and Divorce." His lectures should prove among the most popular ones on the program. He has selected pertinent subjects which will no doubt attract many people. His reputation as a gifted orator is world wide.

The Apollo Concert Company bell ringers is the first musical organization of the assembly. The company will be here for the first program and will remain for three days. The organization comes highly recommended to the local committee. It consists of four men who give a rare and varied program. They compose a quartet as singers and also on various musical instruments. They have attained no greater reputation than with their saxophone quartet which is said to be a musical wonder. There are two or three soloists with the organization. Each program will be a novelty and will be so different that it will be next to impossible to tell that it is the same company, except that their personal appearance is always the same.

On Monday the course workers will begin for the week. It is here that the committee has achieved wonders this year in procuring the people that they have been able to hire. Miss Grace Hemingway will appear every afternoon with talks on lectures on various phases of story telling. Henrietta Calvin, professor of "Domestic Science" in Purdue University, will give lectures on the subject every afternoon.

Miss Hemingway has a reputation as being one of the most pleasing chautauqua entertainers on the platform today. She gives "The Story Hour" for children, which is conceded to be a great innovation in chautauqua programs. She will instruct the children under the shade of the beautiful trees in the part and will entertain them with delightful stories. For adults she gives "Talks on Story Telling" that are very instructive as well as entertaining.

Prof. Calvin hardly needs an introduction here as she appeared for the first time on last year's program. She instructed the women attendants on cooking and the manner in which to make rare dishes so that before the week had passed, many wished that the lectures were to be given over again. Of course, her lectures this year will include a number of new preparations that will be highly valuable to the women of Rushville who may have the opportunity to hear her.

Tuesday will be one of the banner days of the chautauqua. Lincoln McConnell, the preacher-detective, who has won a place in the hearts of Rushville chautauqua goers as no orator ever has, will be here for a lecture both afternoon and night. So popular has Mr. McConnell been that it has been deemed wise to place him on the program again this year. Possibly no man who ever appeared here ever got nearer to the people than he. His method of expression, his very pleasing personality and his manner of convincing the audience of that which he speaks has placed him ahead of any platform man ever in Rushville, so far as a cosmopolitan audience is concerned. It is predicted that his crowds will be among the largest of the week. His subjects have not yet been announced.

Wednesday will be Rush county day. It is the intent of the committee to make it as profitable a day as possible for farmers and residents as well. Prof. Christie of Purdue University, who has gained an enviable reputation on timely topics pertaining to farm work, together with some of his extension workers will be on the program. This program is looked forward to with much anticipation by many people. On the same day a member of the State Health Board organization will be here for a lecture on "Swatting the Flies," and he will convey some information on that timely subject which has never been heard here. It is likely that a tuberculosis exhibit will be made the same day. The music for the day will be furnished by local talent. It has not yet been arranged.

Thursday should be looked forward to by music lovers as well as all others who wish to be entertained, for it is then that the Hinshaw Grand Opera Company of New York will appear in an afternoon and night concert. This is by far the highest priced and the best musical organization which has ever been engaged to appear in Rushville. There are four people in the company. It is likely the "The Bohemian Girl" and "Mar-

PROMINENT MAN
IN LAST SLEEPNathan Weeks, 70 Years Old, Passed Away This Morning at Home in This City.

WAS VERY ACTIVE IN POLITICS

Rush County's Representative in Last General Assembly--Survived by Widow and One Son.

Nathan Weeks, 70 years old, a well known citizen of this city and representative from this county in the last general assembly, died this morning shortly after four o'clock at his home in West Fifth street. Mr. Weeks had been ill for several months, suffering from heart trouble which developed into eurenic poisoning. His death had been expected almost hourly for the past week.

Mr. Weeks, besides being an old soldier, former county treasurer, once candidate for county sheriff and active lodgeman and church member, was successful in the wholesale and retail meat business from which he retired only a few years ago. The Weeks Fresh Meat and Provision Company of this city still retains his name, but he no longer had any interest in it.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Weeks and was born in Henry county, March 19, 1841. Mr. Weeks was reared upon a farm in his native county until he attained majority. In September, 1861, he enlisted in Company D Thirty-sixth Indiana Volunteers, with which he served until the battle of Shiloh, when upon the last day of the fight, he was wounded with a ball in the left thigh. After lying on the battlefield three days, he was placed upon a boat that brought him to Evansville, thence to his home. He regained the use of his leg in about a year and engaged in the harness business until 1873, when he moved to Carthage, where he conducted a meat market for four years. In 1877 he moved to this city and opened up a meat market on a large scale.

In 1884, Mr. Weeks began to take an active interest in politics and made a vigorous canvass for sheriff, but was beaten in the Republican convention for the nomination by three votes. Two years later he was nominated and elected to the office of county treasurer, to which office he was re-elected for a second term. He was elected to the legislature from this county last fall by a good majority.

Mr. Weeks was a member of the I. O. O. F., Knights of Pythias, Royal Arcanum and the Joel Wolfe Post of the G. A. R. He was also identified with the St. Paul M. E. church. Deceased is survived by a widow and one son, George Weeks.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock in the St. Paul M. E. church. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

FINE SPECIMEN OF PINE

Two Hundred Logs Have Been Hauled
From Stanley Farm.

It is seldom that such a lot of pine logs are to be seen in one bunch in Rush county as are now at the Irwin saw mill in Posey township. There are two hundred fine specimen of pine logs there ready to be sawed up and be used as lumber. They were hauled from the William Stanley farm north of Arlington, where a large pine grove had thrived for a number of years.

BLAZE IS WORK
OF INCENDIARYEarl Kitchen Believes His Hatchery to Have Been Set on Fire by an Enemy.

ESTIMATES THE LOSS AT $1800

Flames Kill Between 350 and 400
Ducks--Building Totally Destroyed
With no Insurance.

Fire, thought to be of incendiary origin, destroyed the fowl hatchery of Earl Kitchen in East Eighth street this morning about two o'clock. Mr. Kitchen's loss is estimated at $1800 with no insurance. Between 350 and 400 young ducks perished in the flames.

The fire had evidently gained great headway before being discovered because the entire back part of the large frame building was entirely wiped out before the fire department arrived. H. Bundrant was the first to notice the fire and he was awakened by the smoke coming into his room. The building burned rapidly and it was only a question of time until the whole place was in flames.

It is the opinion of those who arrived on the scene first that the blaze started in the center and rear of the building. That the building was set on fire by some one in that part of the city who was opposed to the hatchery being located there is the theory of many. There had been no fire in the place for about ten days and it is generally known that certain people were not much in favor of having the hatchery so close to the residence district.

Mr. Kitchen when seen today stated that it was his belief that the building was set on fire. "I have been knocked by several people in that part of the city," said Mr. Kitchen, "and since there has been no fire there for at least ten days, it is my belief that it was set on fire." Mr. Kitchen further stated that the fire department returned to the station in too big a hurry and after they had gone back the flames started again and destroyed his $150 incubator. He says he called them up as did City Marshal Harlow, but could not get them to return and finish putting out the blaze. He lays the loss of his incubator directly to the fire department for their seemingly careless methods.

The hatchery was considered one of the largest and most complete in the county and the loss to Mr. Kitchen is very heavy. He seems to be a victim of ill luck for just recently he lost 2700 chickens by drowning when his hatchery was located where the Glove Company is now. It is his intentions not to rebuild.

THE WEATHER.

Generally fair except probably local thunder showers tonight or Tuesday. Cooler in south portion tonight.

ROLL CALL TODAY.
On page three of today's issue will be found a roll call of the 22d Indiana battery, of which there are a few survivors in this section of the State. It was compiled by George W. Alexander, until recently of this city, but now of Indianapolis and is the result of much labor on his part. Accompanying the roll call is a personal letter to Mr. Alexander in which the death of Capt. Benjamin F. Denning, father of Ab Denning of this city, is explained by a witness to the scene. It seems that there has been some mystery about the circumstance.

BLOOD POISONING FATAL

Mrs. Amos Gwynnup, 64 Years Old, Died This Morning.

Mrs. Margaret Gwynnup, widow of the late Amos Gwynnup, died this morning at eight-thirty o'clock at her home near Orange, from blood poisoning. She had been ill for several weeks and her death had been expected. Mrs. Gwynnup was 64 years old and is survived by two grand children. Her husband died three years ago. The funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at eight o'clock at the Orange M. E. church, conducted by the Rev. Clyde S. Black. The body will be taken to Anderson for burial, that being Mrs. Gwynnup's former home.

JAMES E. WATSON
MUCH IN DEMANDWill Make Two Decoration Day Speeches, One at Booneville and Another at Princeton.

REFUSES OTHER ENGAGEMENTS

James E. Watson is very much in demand as a public speaker and yesterday afternoon he began on a series of addresses which will keep him busy for a few days. Tomorrow afternoon he will deliver the Decoration Day address to the old soldiers and citizens in Princeton. From there he will be carried to Booneville by an automobile, where he will deliver a Decoration Day address in the Mathewson opera house. He will be introduced by Former Senator James Hemingway. A big celebration is being planned there. Mr. Watson has refused to deliver the commencement address at his home, Winchester, on Wednesday evening on account of another engagement. He has a number of other commencement addresses to deliver before the season closes. He spoke at the K. of P. memorial services in New Castle yesterday afternoon.

AGED MAN DIES
FROM PARALYSISAndrew Krammes, 90 Years Old, Succumbs at Home of Son After Brief Illness.

BURIAL TUESDAY AFTERNOON

Andrew Krammes, 90 years old, died Sunday afternoon at the home of his son, George W. Krammes, three miles west of the city. Mr. Krammes suffered a stroke of paralysis a week ago last Wednesday and because of his advanced age little hope had been entertained for his recovery. Of late years he had made his home with his children. Mr. Krammes was married twice, his first wife passing away several years ago, and the widow now resides in Buena Vista, Franklin county. Besides a widow he is survived by six children. They are as follows: Mrs. Mary Ellison of Colorado City, Col., Albert, George, Louis H., Ulysses G. and Thomas A.

The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Jones of Arlington at the Pleasant Ridge church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. Burial will take place in the church cemetery.

EVANGELIST WORKS WONDERS

Women Hold Mass Meeting and Prepare For Their Share in the Meeting.

The Rev. W. W. Orr revival meeting which will be held in the tabernacle, beginning June 7, is gradually increasing in proportions and its success is no longer a conjecture, but a certainty. The number of supporters for the coming revival is growing larger each day and it is predicted that the meeting will meet with pronounced success. The interest that is being manifested is enough to insure the success of the event even before it is started, so many people declare.

The Rev. Mr. Orr has been highly successful wherever he has been in meetings. Too much can not be said of the evangelist as such. He did regular pastoral work for thirty-two years and in that manner got well acquainted with people and learned to trust and believe in them. Since he has taken up evangelistic work, he has held meetings in about twelve different States. Wherever he has been, he has accomplished much, so testimonials received from the many churches prove.

The work of perfecting the organization is still going on. The second of the series of three mass meetings for women was held in the St. Paul M. E. church yesterday afternoon at four o'clock and proved to be a very enthusiastic affair. The women of the city will take an active part in the coming campaign for lost souls and they are making rapid preparations for their part. The meeting was led by Mrs. J. W. Turner. A similar meeting will be held in the Main Street Christian church next Sunday afternoon.

The work on the tabernacle is at a standstill due to the fact that the tar roofing has not yet arrived. Everything else has been completed and the roof will be put on just as soon as it arrives.

There will be no cottage prayer meetings this week until Friday evening. They will be announced later in the week.

Mayor Black Says Riding on Sidewalk

Mayor B. A. Black has issued an order that the riding on sidewalks by motorcycleists and bicyclists must be stopped at once. Another notice of the enforcement of the ordinance will be published tomorrow and after that, any person who violates the act will be punished to the fullest extent of the law, according to the mayor, who has had many complaints from various sources in the last few weeks. He declares that the unlawful practice must be stopped.

SETTLEMENT TO BE MADE AT ONCE

Mexico Will Establish a Court Of Claims.

THE RECOVERY OF DAMAGES

Indemnity Will Be Provided For In the Cases Arising From the Killing of Foreigners and the Destruction of Foreign Property—President De La Barra Wants All Such Claims Settled Up Without Delay.

Mexico City, May 29.—The sending of notes to the representatives of aggrieved nations stating that a court of claims would be established for the consideration of demands against Mexico for damages and indemnity arising from the killing of foreigners and the destruction of foreign property was one of the first acts of President De La Barra. According to De La Barra duplicate notes were sent to the embassies of the United States, England, Germany, Spain and China.

Representations for recovery of damages may be made through regular diplomatic channels and all speed will be used to bring the claims before the court as soon as compatible with political conditions. De La Barra gave assurance of the anxiety of the government to make reparation on all bona fide claims of loss or death. No date is set for the convening of the court, but it is understood that within a month the court will be in session and claims will be considered according to precedence.

The second important announcement made by the new president was that concerning the disposition of a large part of the insurrecto armies.
He is said now to be considering a plan of paying a certain pension to all revolutionaries and a pension to the families of those killed. The better element of the Insurrectos are allowed the option of joining the rurales or joining a force that will be used to suppress the brigands throughout the country. A bill authorizing this scheme will shortly be introduced into congress and a committee of five from the senate and the deputies will be appointed to work out the details of reimbursement. De La Barra hopes that this matter will be settled before the holding of the elections, so that no bands of armed and discontented rebels may still exist to the embarrassment of the election.

Alleged Plot Against Madero.

El Paso, Tex., May 29.—Dan De Villiers, a Boer war comrade of General B. L. Viljoen, was arrested here and W. F. Dunn was arrested in Monterey on charges of conspiring against the life of Francisco I. Madero. The arrests were caused by B. X. Viljoen, military adviser of Madero. He says that out-and-out proposals were made by Villiers and Dunn to have the revolution started again, this time against Madero, and when this was apparently impossible, they were preparing to assassinate Madero.

ASPHALT EXCELLENT AS A MACADAM BINDER

Cecil Nathan, an engineer who gives especial attention to road making, expresses the belief that asphalt is destined to take the place of tar as a binder of macadam roads, says the Public Officials Magazine. He defines the "essential desiderata" of a satisfactory road as smooth appearance and even surface following the camber of the road, which must be sanitary dustless, noiseless and non-slippery. Mr. Nathan also stipulates that the ideal road must not only have these qualities, but be reasonable in initial cost and above all in maintenance.

Mr. Nathan said many of the generation can recall the phrase, "Electricity is only in its infancy," and that likewise the road board is today only in its infancy, and that he believed that it would grow into as fine and healthy a child as electricity did. Like other infants, the road board is just beginning to speak, and the first word that it has been taught, is tar, and it was his hope that it will very soon grow up and learn words of two syllables, such as asphalt, and then be able to expound to road engineers the real meaning of this much misunderstood word.

Further Mr. Nathan stated that this is a tar age, and as an indifferent palliative, tar is serving its purpose today as a temporary expedient; but something much more permanent than the primitive methods of tar spraying or even tar-macadam is required for the future, and he maintains that permanency will be obtained only from the adoption as waterproof roadcrust binders of asphalt, owing to its ability to withstand the rotting effect of water.

LOCAL FIRM WILL CON- TINUE VALUABLE AGENCY

F. E. Wolcott of this city has just closed a deal whereby they will continue to be agents for ZEMO—the well known remedy for Eczema, Dandruff, and all diseases of the skin and scalp.
The extraordinary leap that this clean fluid external treatment for skin affections has made into public in the last few years proves its wonderful curative properties and makes it indeed a valuable addition to the fine stock of remedial agents carried by F. E. Wolcott.
They have a limited supply of samples. One of which will be given free to any skin sufferer who wishes to test the merit of the medicine. A booklet "How to Preserve the Skin," will also be given to those interested.

berlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets is and indigestion. Sold by all dealers.

This country may congratulate itself on being ahead of the continent in the matter of roads, it still has a good deal to learn from America, where asphaltum base oils are used on a very large scale with good results as a palliative for spraying on roads in preference to crude or refined tar, such as is in general use here.

Furthermore in America asphaltums are now nearly always employed as binders in constructing macadam roads, and naturally this has been thoroughly demonstrated and proved that asphaltums are far more economical for this purpose. Such roads, even on steepish gradients, provide a surface which affords a good foothold for horses and prevent motor skidding also, owing to the nature of the binder, such roads remain quiet, elastic and resilient under all extremes of temperature and under the most trying mixed traffic conditions.

Very little reflection is necessary to convince even a layman in road matters that coal tar varies too much in quality and is, per se, far too susceptible to the changes of climate and temperature to be of any real permanent service as a road binder.
Not only does it soften the macadam in summer, but also makes it brittle and crack in winter, so that tar-bound macadam roads cannot be expected and are not likely in these circumstances to withstand the strains to which they are subjected by fast and heavy motor traffic for any period of reasonable length.

Again, tarred macadam is by no means dustless, and the question has recently been raised as to whether the dust from roads, when treated with tar, is injurious to the eyes, but as tarred dust, like ordinary dust, can produce only a mechanical irritation upon the mucous membrane of the eye, and in view of the fact that the dust from a tarred road is naturally considerably less than from a road not so treated, it is therefore obvious that tarring roads is likely to tend to diminish the chance of injury to the eyes.

Climatic conditions have so important a bearing upon the life of roads—it is no exaggeration to say that at least 50 per cent of the wear of water-bound macadam roads is due to weather—that, knowing this,
and admitting that macadam is the right material for the construction of main country roads, it is necessary only for the road engineer to consider the best material to employ as a water-proof binder capable of withstanding climatic conditions for binding the crust of such macadam roads so as to make each piece of stone adhere to its neighbor and at the same time be able to withstand any tendency toward disintegration, the ideal binder for this purpose being asphalt.

suddenly taken with an attack of backache and it steadily grew worse.
I could hardly raise my foot from the

POSTOFFICE WIPES OUT THAT DEFICIT

Is Self-Supporting for First Time In Years.

Washington, May 29.—For the first time in nearly thirty years the postoffice department is self-supporting.
Postmaster General Hitchcock announces that the department is now able to meet its expenses without aid from the federal treasury, and has accordingly returned to the secretary of the treasury $3,000,000 which was set aside from the public funds to defray the expenses of the postal service in the current fiscal year. Not only is the service now self-sustaining, but there is at present, according to Mr.
Hitchcock's announcement, a postal surplus of more than $1,000,000. The postmaster general expects that this surplus will be greater for the entire year unless extraordinary expenses occur in the next month.

The wiping out of the postal deficit within two years is regarded by President Taft as one of the most satisfactory accomplishments of his administration. When the Taft administration entered on its life it inherited a deficit of more than $17,500,000, the largest in the history of the postal service. The postmaster general contends that the big deficit has been wiped out, not by curtailing postal facilities, as some of his critics have contended, but by introducing business methods in the department and extending the service along profitable lines.

As far as known there are of the 163 names about one hundred and three dead, and of the unknown nineteen it is believed the most, if not all are also dead, leaving about forty, who until recently are known to have been living.

Thus it is seen that about seventy-five per cent of the company have passed away in the forty-eight years since we went in Camp at Indianapolis, Indiana, September 8, 1862 and at this rate, sixteen more years will call the remainder.

Anyone having knowledge of any of the unknown, or any errors in this roll call will confer a favor by communicating such information to Mr. G. W. Alexander.

It has been my hope should I be spared so long, to make a fifty year call and in it include the names of all of the living children and grandchildren and addresses and file the same in the State Library.

As might have been expected I have discovered that there are a good many of the comrades who have both influential and interesting children. This is true of some who are still living as well as of some who have died, many of whom are doing well and are of influence in the communities in which they live, and

THE FORMER BOY.

(Muncie Press.)

At a meeting of the presidents of twenty of the nation's largest corporations held in New York, the other day, it was a matter of comment that of those present, twelve were farmer's boys."

When the youngsters at home on the farm gets "the blues" and fancies that there is no longer the chance that there used to be to rise above the monotony and drudgery of a tiller of the soil, he can think of those twelve captains of industry who started as he is starting and remember that when they were boys there were times when they too imagined that it was a hopeless ambition to aspire to win their way to the front in the city.

He wants to remember that the farm has evolved some of the world's greatest men and some of its most conspicuously useful ones and that with the increasing activities of the nation in all directions there is now more than ever, room at the top for the exceptional man.

INDIANA'S MONTE CARLO.

(Marion Chronicle.)

Indiana enjoys the unenviable distinction of having within the borders of the State a gambling institution of national reputation. There is nothing like it anywhere else in the United States, and the scenes in Monte Carlo, the outlaw republic, are reproduced nightly at French Lick. It will be remembered that Governor Hanly found a way to close this place. Governor Marshall is so busy advising the mothers and the ministers as to their respective duties that he has no time to interfere with the operations of the Democratic political boss who owns French Lick Springs. But if a crowd of strikers were to engage in lawlessness on the wholesale scale adopted at French Lick, Governor Marshall would not hesitate to call out the militia in compliance with his oath to see to it that the laws are executed.

ITALIAN LOST 22 DOLLARS

Offers Reward to Woman Who Found the Pocketbook.

An Italian employed by the construction company lost a pocketbook containing $22 shortly after noon today while crossing Second street at the intersection of Main and Second streets. A man saw a woman pick it up, but does not know her name, but says he can identify her if he should see her again. The police were notified of the loss and are endeavoring to find the woman. The Italian has offered a liberal reward if the money is turned over to the police.

APPOMATTOX APPLE TREE STORY A MYTH.

Famous Tale of Lee's Surrender to Grant Branded as Such.

The old apple tree at Appomattox is largely a myth. There was an apple tree, but no conference between General Lee and General Grant took place under it and no surrender was effected under it. Judge Thomas G. Jones of Montgomery, Ala., who was an officer on the staff of General John B. Gordon, who was present at Appomattox, says that the popular idea current some years ago of a surrender under an apple tree was altogether wrong.

"The apple tree never figured in it at all," said Judge Jones, "except to the slight extent: In the morning of the day of the surrender General Lee sent a flag of truce to General Grant. While he was waiting the return of his messenger to General Grant he sat down on the roots of an old apple tree and waited awhile. Long before the messenger returned he had left the apple tree and was at the McLean farmhouse, where he and General Grant held their conference and where the final surrender was effected. The old apple tree was quickly cut down and cut to pieces by relic hunters, and something like fifty other apple trees in the orchard were cut to pieces. The pieces were later made up and sold in various forms through the country. This probably encouraged the fallacy that Grant and Lee had sat under the apple tree. But the two generals met at the McLean farmhouse.

"My vivid recollection of the Appomattox surrender is seeing General Lee come out of his headquarters on that final morning and mount Old Traveler, his famous horse. He was immaculately dressed. At his side he wore the handsome sword given him by the people of Virginia. He was buried in deep thought, and as he mounted his horse he clapped his hands absentmindedly together. The private soldiers crowded about the horse and begged him for information. I heard him say to the men crowding about him: 'We have fought the war through. It is now all over.'

WARNS FRATERNITY MEN.

Cornell President Says Too Many Fail in Their Work.

Another warning to the fraternity men at Cornell university to do better work in their classrooms is sounded in President Schurman's report on the comparative scholastic standing of the fraternity and nonfraternity men for the year 1911. President Schurman points out that of the eighty-eight men dropped in February as the result of the midyear examinations the fraternities furnished 40 to 45 per cent, whereas the number of male undergraduates belonging to fraternities constituted but 29 per cent of the entire male student population.

The figures are about the same as last year, and Dr. Schurman says that is not a good showing for the fraternities. He is glad to commend fifteen fraternities, whose names he gives, which did not lose a single man for poor scholarship last year.

Of the 3,587 regular students, excluding graduate students and women, 1,048 belong to the fraternities and 2,539 do not. Forty fraternity men and forty-eight nonfraternity men were dropped. The distribution among classes shows that the sophomore year is the dangerous one for fraternity men.

MOVE INTO NEW TERRITORY TODAY

Canvassers Seek New Fields and Will Work Night and Day For Earlham College.

WORK FOR THE $50,000 MARK

An Increase of $1,016 Has Been Made

Since Saturday When Total

Was $24,010.

The Earlham canvassers in general moved into new territory today and for two weeks will be working night and day to push Earlham College fund up close to the $50,000 mark, which is set for June 21. The campaign in this new territory, which includes Miami, Wabash, Bartholomew, Jennings, Orange, Washington, Vermillion, Montgomery, Boone, Tippecanoe counties, Ind.; Van Wert, Paulding, Mercer, Preble, Butler and Hamilton counties, Ohio; and Vermillion and Iroquois counties, Ill., and continue within ten days of June 21, and it is of course necessary by that time to have practically the entire fund assured.

The final ten days of the campaign will be devoted to a canvass of the city of Richmond, which, it is believed, will make up any deficiency which may exist at that time.

As the second half of the campaign begins in new territory, the Earlham fund has reached $25,026, which is just midway in the journey toward $50,000. On last Saturday afternoon the total was $24,010. This afternoon it is $25,026, an increase of $1,016.

There were thirty-five contributors in today's increase, the average pledge being $29. There was one pledge of $500 and the others ranged all the way down to $1. The towns represented by contributions were: Kokomo, Monrovia, Bridgeport, Chicago, Greentown, Fairmount, Jonesboro, Evanston, Ill., Westfield, Canby, West Newton, Plainfield, Valley Mills, Mooresville and Carthage.

The field men will begin their operations June 1 and will work in the north, east, south and west parts of the State in separate parties.

CARRIE WILEY CEASES TO WORRY

Alleged Sweetheart of Ben Noble and Star Witness in Trial, Seems Indifferent.

ARE JUST AS GOOD FISH, ETC.

Miss Carrie Wiley, sweetheart, so alleged of Ben Noble, who recently committed suicide in the county jail at Rushville, because of a life sentence for the murder of Albert Sprague, at Burney, last summer, was in town Friday, says the Hope Journal. Miss Wiley is a pretty girl, unusually intelligent and she seems to worry little, if any, over the fate of her deceased convict lover. She made the best witness Noble had at his trial and it is thought that her evidence caused the jury to give him a life sentence instead of imposing the death penalty.

Miss Wiley is not cast down over the unhallowed death of Noble. She is looking the world in the face and probably goes on the assumption that there are just as good fish in the sea as ever were caught. Better luck to her next time.

ROLLAND MILLER NOT DEAD

St. Paul Boy Was Not Killed in Indianapolis Accident.

The report that Roland Miller, of St. Paul, had been killed at Indianapolis Friday afternoon while at work was incorrect. Young Miller, who is employed by the Indianapolis Light & Heat Co., while working on top of a pole took hold of a live wire and the passage of 5,000 volts of the juice through his body, threw him to the ground. At first it was reported that he had been killed. It was learned later, however, that he had been taken to the City hospital, where treatment was given him. Saturday he was reported to be in a serious condition, but it is thought that he will recover. His father and uncle, both of St. Paul, are at his bedside.

CHAPTER XI.

The Fight in the Dark.

Had the room been filled with men Keith could have restrained himself no longer. Whatever her past might be, this woman appealed to him strangely; he could not believe evil of her; he would have died if need be in her defense. But as it was, the ugly boast of Hawley gave confidence in the final outcome of this struggle in the dark, even a possibility of escape for them all. The gambler, assured of being confronted merely by a frail and not overscrupulous woman, had ventured there alone; had stationed his men beyond sound; had doubtless instructed them to ignore any noise of struggle which they might overhear within. It was these very arrangements for evil which now afforded opportunity, and Keith crept forward, alert and ready, his teeth clenched, his hands bare for contest. Even although he surprised his antagonist, it was going to be a fight for life; he knew "Black Bart," broad-shouldered, quick as a cat, accustomed to every form of physical exercise, desperate and tricky, using either knife or gun recklessly. Yet it was now or never for all of them, and the plainsman felt no mercy, experienced no reluctance. He reached the table, and straightened up, silent, expectant. For an instant there was no further sound; no evidence of movement in the room. Hawley, puzzled by the silence, was listening intently in an endeavor to locate the girl through some rustling, some slight motion. A knife, knocked from the table, perhaps, as she slipped softly past, fell clattering to the floor, and the gambler leaped instantly forward. Keith's grip closed like iron on his groping arm, while he shot one fist out toward where the man's head should be. The blow glanced, yet drove the fellow backward, stumbling against the table, and Keith closed in, grappling for the throat. The other, startled by the unexpected attack, and scarcely realizing even yet the nature of his antagonist, struggled blindly to escape the fingers clawing at him, and flung one hand down to the knife in his belt. Warned by the movement, the assailant drove his head into the gambler's chest, sending him crashing to the floor, falling himself heavily upon the prostrate body. Hawley gave utterance to one cry, half throttled in his throat, and then the two grappled fiercely, so interlocked together as to make weapons useless. Whoever the assailant might be, the gambler was fully aware by now that he was being crushed in the grasp of a fighting man, and exerted every wrestler's trick, every ounce of strength, to break free. Twice he struggled to his knees, only to be crowded backward by relentless power; once he hurled Keith sideways, but the plainsman's muscles stiffened into steel, and he gradually regained his position. Neither dared release a grip in order to strike a blow; neither had sufficient breath left with which to utter a sound. They were fighting for life, silently, desperately, like wild beasts, with no thought but to injure the other. The gambler's teeth sank into Keith's arm, and the latter in return jammed the man's head back onto the punchon floor viciously. Perspiration streamed from their bodies, their fingers clutching, their limbs wrapped together, their muscles strained to the utmost. Keith had forgotten the girl, the negro, everything, dominated by the one

NASAL CATARRH

Mrs. E. Karberg Says it is Easy to Get Rid of.

"A bad case of catarrh was cured for me by the use of Hyomei. The trouble affected my head, nose and eyes, and was very annoying and disagreeable, and the cure, from the use of Hyomei, was very gratifying. Hyomei has from me a strong recommendation and endorsement."—Mrs. E. Karberg, 213 Kingsley St., Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 16, 1908.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) cures catarrh, because it gets where the germs are, and destroys them. It is made of Australian eucalyptus, mixed with other healing antiseptics. When breathed over the irritated membrane, it gives relief in two minutes.

Used regularly for a few weeks it will build up and heal the germ infested membrane and drive out catarrh.

If you own a small Hyomei pocket inhaler, you can get a bottle of Hyomei at druggists everywhere, or at F. B. Johnson & Co. for only 50 cents. If you do not own a Hyomei inhaler, ask for a complete outfit, the price is $1.00. It is guaranteed to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, croup or sore throat, or money back.

passion to conquer. He was swept by a storm of hatred, a desire to kill. In their fierce struggle the two had rolled close to the fire place, and in the dull glow of the dying embers, he could perceive a faint outline of the man's face. The sight added flame to his mad passion, yet he could do nothing except to cling to him, jabbing his fingers into the straining throat.

The negro ended the affair in his own way, clawing blindly at the combatants in the darkness, and finally, determining which was the enemy, he struck the gambler with the stock of his gun, laying him out unconscious. Keith, grasping the table, hauled himself to his feet, gasping for breath, certain only that Hawley was no longer struggling. For an instant all was blank, a mist of black vapor; then a realization of their situation came back in sudden flood of remembrance. Even yet he could see nothing, but felt the motionless figure at his feet.

"Quick," he urged, the instant he could make himself speak. "The fellow is only stunned; we must tie and gag him. Is that you, Neb? Where is the girl?

"I am here, Captain Keith," and he heard the soft rustle of her dress across the room. "What is it I may do?"

"A coil of rope, or some straps, with a piece of cloth; anything you can lay hands on."

She was some moments at it, confused by the darkness, and Hawley moved slightly, his labored breathing growing plainly perceptible. Keith heard her groping toward him, and held out his hands. She started as he thus unexpectedly touched her, yet made no effort to break away.

"You—you frightened me a little," she confessed. "This has all happened so quickly I hardly realize yet just what has occurred."

"The action has only really begun," he assured her, still retaining his hold upon her hand. "This was merely a preliminary skirmish, and you must prepare to bear your part in what follows. We have settled Mr. Hawley for the present, and now must deal with his gang."

"Oh, what would I have done if you had not been here?"

"Let us not think about that; we were here, and now have a busy night before us if we get away safely. Give me the rope first. Good! Here, Neb, you must know how to use this—not too tight, but without leaving any play to the arms; take the knife out of his belt. Now for the cloth, Miss Maclaire."

"Please do not call me that!"

"But you said it didn't make any difference what I called you."

"I thought it didn't then, but it does now."

"Oh, I see; we are already on a new footing. Yet I must call you something."

She hesitated just long enough for him to notice it. Either she had no substitute ready at hand, or else doubted the advisability of confiding her real name under present circumstances to one so nearly a stranger.

"You may call me Hope."

"A name certainly of good omen," he returned. "From this moment I shall forget Christie Maclaire, and remember only Miss Hope. All right, Neb; now turn over a chair, and sit your man up against it. He will rest all the easier in that position until his gang arrives."

He thrust his head out of the door, peering cautiously forth into the night, and listening. A single horse, probably the one Hawley had been riding, was tied to a dwarfed cottonwood near the corner of the cabin. Nothing else living was visible.

"I am going to round up our horses, and learn the condition of Hawley's outfit," he announced in a low voice. "I may be gone for fifteen or twenty minutes, and, meanwhile, Miss Hope, get ready for a long ride. Neb, stand here close beside the door, and if any one tries to come in brain him with your gun-stock. I'll rap three times when I return."

He slipped out into the silent night, and crept cautiously around the end of the dark cabin. The distinct change in the girl's attitude of friendship toward him, her every evident desire that he should think well of her, together with the providential opportunity for escape, had left him full of confidence. The gambler had played blindly into their hands, and Keith was quick enough to accept the advantage. It was a risk to himself, to be sure, thus turning again to the northward, yet the clear duty he owed the girl left such a choice almost imperative. He certainly could not drag her along with him on his flight into the wild Comanche country extending beyond the Canadian. She must, at the very least, be first returned to the protection of the semi-civilization along the Arkansas. After that had been accomplished, he would consider his own safety. He wondered if Hope really was her name, and whether it was the family cognomen, or her given name. That she was Christie Maclaire he had no question, yet that artistic embellishment was probably merely assumed for the work of the concert hall. Both he and Hawley could scarcely be mistaken as to her identity in this respect, and, indeed, she had never openly denied the fact. Yet she did not at all seem to be that kind, and Keith mentally contrasted her with numerous others whom he had somewhat intimately known along the border circuit. It was difficult to associate her with that class; she must have come originally from some excellent family East, and been driven to the life by necessity; she was more to be pitied than blamed. Keith held no puritanical views of life—his own experiences had been too rough and democratic for that—yet he clung tenaciously to an ideal of womanhood which could not be lowered. However interested he might otherwise feel, no Christie Maclaire could ever find entrance into the depths of his heart, where dwelt alone the memory of his mother.

He found the other horses turned into the corral, and was able, from their restless movements, to decide they numbered eight. A fire, nearly extinguished, glowed dully at the farther corner of the enclosure, and he crawled close enough to distinguish the recumbent forms of men sleeping about it on the ground. Apparently no guard had been set, the fellows being worn out from their long ride, and confident of safety in this isolated spot. Besides, Hawley had probably assumed that duty, and told them to get whatever sleep they could. However, the gate of the corral opened beside their fire, and Keith dare not venture upon roping any of their ponies, or leading them out past where they slept. There might be clippers in the cabin with which he could cut the wires, yet if one of the gang awoke, and discovered the herd absent, it would result in an alarm, and lead to early pursuit. It was far safer to use their own ponies. He would lead Hawley's horse quietly through the water, and they could mount on the other shore. This plan settled, he went at it swiftly, riding the captured animal while rounding up the others, and fastening the three to stunted trees on the opposite bank. Everything within the cabin remained exactly as he had left it, and he briefly explained the situation, examining Hawley's bonds again carefully while doing so.

"He'll remain there all right until his men find him," he declared, positively, "and that ought to give us a good six hours' start. Come, Miss Hope, every minute counts now."

He held her arm, not unconscious of its round shapeliness, as he helped her down the rather steep bank through the dense gloom. Then the two men joined hands, and carrying her between them, waded the shallow stream. The horses, not yet sufficiently rested to be frisky, accepted their burdens meekly enough, and, with scarcely a word spoken, the three rode away silently into the gloom of the night.

WEST VIRGINIA DEAD LOCK NOW PREDICTED

Senate and House Not Together On Primary Bill.

Charleston, W. Va., May 29.—The first fruit of the extra session of the legislature was plucked when the house of delegates passed by a vote of 51 to 23 the Dice-French bill, a primary measure providing for the direct nomination of candidates for public office.

The feature of the bill is a referendum which required the act to be submitted to the voters at the general election in 1912 before becoming effective. Efforts to strike the referendum feature from the bill were unavailing.

The action of the house in passing the Dice-French bill was taken several hours after the senate by a vote of 17 to 11 had rejected the Bland amendment proposing to substitute a similar bill for the Coffman measure now pending in the senate.

The substitute offered by Bland did not contain the referendum feature, but some of the parliamentarians of the legislature assert that the action of the senate in rejecting the substitute precludes any action of the senate on the Dice-French bill and predict a deadlock in the legislature.

MAY LEAD TO A CHURCH SPLIT

Texas Torn Up Over Prohibition Issue.

METHODISTS OUST GOVERNOR

When Governor Colquitt Lined Up With Anti-Prohibition Interests, the Church of Which He is a Member Expelled Him, but He Refused to Be Expelled and a Big Church Row is Threatened.
Galveston, Tex., May 29.—Having lined up with the anti-prohibition interests in their fight against state-wide prohibition, and having accepted numerous invitations to make public speeches in the campaign, Gov. Colquitt's resignation from the Methodist church was asked for. He declined to quit the church and there was nothing else to do but expel him, and he refuses to be expelled and insists upon being a Methodist and worshipping in the Methodist faith regardless of whether the church officials cancel his membership or not. He has made public his declaration and says that prohibition is a political proposition and not a matter of religion, and that the Methodist church nor any church has any power to dictate to its members whether they shall vote for and support prohibition or anti-prohibition.
The controversy threatens to divide the Methodists in Texas, for the campaign for state-wide prohibition is waging hot and the election is to be held in July.

CAUGHT IN STORM

Baseball Players at Granite City Have Painful Experience.

St. Louis, May 29.—A hurricane lifted the grandstand in the Granite City (Ill.) baseball park and turned it over on more than twenty persons huddled behind it, Sunday afternoon. Nearly all were injured, several seriously.
Sidney Mangus, son of former Mayor Mangus of Granite City, was internally injured and will die. Most of the injured persons belonged to the Miller Brothers ball team of St. Louis and the Childs and Anderson team of Granite City.
When the storm broke the spectators fled and the ball players sought refuge in the dressing room beneath the grandstand. When the wind swayed it they fled again. As they emerged the wind lifted the grandstand twenty feet from its foundations and landed it upside down upon the ball players and others, who were pinioned beneath the wreckage for twenty minutes before it could be removed.

Cyclone Strikes Pekin.

trees, and wire service destroyed. The damage is estimated at $50,000.

R. Conkling of Chicago, said to have been a nephew of the late Senator

Ohio train. They were standing on head bridge.

Court Wouldn't Stand For It.

Macon, Ga., May 29.—In stinging language, United States Judge Emory Speer threatened T. B. Felder, attorney general-elect of Georgia, with disbarment in all federal courts unless the latter refrained from describing the colored plaintiff in a peonage case as a "nigger." Felder is counsel for several prominent white men accused of peonage, and in outlining his case to the jury repeatedly referred to the negro who accused the white men, as a "nigger."

SPECTATORS THRILLED

Deadly Smashup in a Motorcycle Race
at Chicago.

Chicago, May 29.—"Dead Man's Bend," the treacherous west curve of the racetrack at Hawthorne, figured Sunday in the death of one man and another fatally hurt, a third injured seriously and several miraculous escapes in a spectacular smashup before the eyes of 5,000 spectators. Each of the racers had come to Chicago to open the local motorcycle racing season.

Harry Nixon of Dayton, O., was thrown against the outer fence, his body carrying away the top boards.
He died shortly after being taken to St. Anthony's hospital. The injured were Paul Bailey, Indianapolis, ribs crushed in, skull fractured, dying at St. Anthony's hospital; C. S. Hinckley, Aurora, collar bone broken and bruised; Frank Hart, Springfield,

The event, a ten-mile free-for-all, that had second place on the program, was run off as if nothing had happened.

fore September.

namite, for a continuance from June 1

he never committed, Julian Hunn,

HARVEY MOON TO PLEAD INSANITY

Probable Defense in Double Murder Case.

INQUIRY GIVES AN OPENING

Less Than a Month Ago Moon's Father Had Secured an Investigation of the Man's Mental Condition, the Commission at That Time Declaring Him Sane—Talk of Mob Violence in Hendricks County Dies Out.

Danville, Ind., May 29.—This community seems to be willing to let the law take its course and the talk of lynching Harvey Moon, murderer of Constable Oliver Wilhoit and Mrs.
George Baldock has died out.
It is said the indictment and trial of Moon will be speedy. As soon as Coroner Allred makes his finding, Prosecutor Sears will call the grand jury.
So far Moon has not consulted an attorney, and refuses to talk. It is probable the court will appoint an attorney to defend him, and that an insanity plea will be made. On complaint of his father an insanity commission investigated Moon's condition three weeks ago, and pronounced him sane. Attorneys say that the very fact of a commission having been appointed, notwithstanding their finding, gives a good opening for an insanity plea.

Talking to a friend at the jail, Moon said that he shot Constable Wilhoit in self-defense because he thought the constable was going to kill him, but that he did not kill Mrs. Baldock—that he did not see her.

PRETENTIOUS ARRAY OF TALENT FOR CHAUTAUQUA

tha" will be the two operas that will be presented here.

William Hinshaw, the head of the company, is now singing with the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, now the only organization of its kind in the eastern metropolis. Only recently he won over thirty competitors the position which he now holds. The soprano of the company is none other than Rose Ludger Gannon, who is known in Indiana. She was the soloist at the Connersville and Richmond May festival last year and has been prominently spoken of as one of the best in her profession. The other two members of the company are noted in that particular line of work.

On Friday the Chautauqua Ladies Orchestra, consisting of eight members, will come for the remainder of the assembly. They will give the preludes to all of the programs and will render the complete program Saturday afternoon with a varied concert. Among the number are several soloists on various musical instruments and also a reader of ability. The committee attempted to get the best ladies orchestra on the platform today and it is believed that they succeeded.

On Friday afternoon the course lectures will be given as usual. That date is still open and it may be possible to arrange for a lecturer or an entertainment of some sort.

Friday evening a moving picture show of greater worth than any which has been shown here will compose the program besides the prelude. It is entitled "The Romance of the Reaper" and is prepared by the International Harvester Company.

On Saturday afternoon the concert by the Ladies Orchestra will be given and at night William Sterling Battis, "The Dickens Man" will render the program. He is said to be far better than any impersonator that ever appeared on the local program. He delineates only Dickens' characters and at that he is said to be wonderful. A rare treat is in store for chautauqua goers who hear Battis, according to the committee which has tried before to get him on the program.

The chautauqua will be closed in a "blaze of glory," so to speak. Madison C Peters, one of the most learned speakers of today will give both lectures. He appeared for the first time on the chautauqua program last year and his work met with such success that he decided to continue it. He is a recognized preacher, author and gifted orator. He probably speaks to more people today than any other one man. From fifty to one hundred newspapers all over the United States print his sermons.

The chautauqua will be graced this year with a platform man of ability which serves to round off the eight days' program and make it one that will long be remembered. Prof. Ernest Wiles, principal of the Evansville high school, has been engaged to act in that capacity. He has a pleasing and magnetic personality that is sure to win favor with the audiences. Besides he has a fine voice and stage presence that has gained for him the reputation of being one of the best managers in the business.

JAMES E. WATSON GIVES TALK

James E. Watson of this city was a part of the first day's celebration of the three days' "homecoming celebration" in honor of the completion of improvement at a cost of $6,000 and re-occupancy of Castle Hall, the lodge home of Crescent Lodge, No. 33, Knights of Pythias, New Castle. Mr. Watson delivered the address at the annual memorial services at Castle Hall yesterday afternoon, following which the building was opened and the public was welcomed to inspect the new home. All of the decorations were made in the interior. Twenty-five candidates will be initiated into the third rank and the three days' event will close tomorrow evening with a roll call meeting and banquet.

THUNDER STORM
CAUSES DEATH

Mrs. Elizabeth Mendenhall Expires From Effects of Shock During Severe Electrical Display.

HER BROTHER'S TRAGIC ENDING

Mrs. Elizabeth Mendenhall, aged 68 years, died suddenly at her home in Morristown Sunday, during a violent thunderstorm that passed over that part of the country. Mrs. Mendenhall had been suffering from organic heart trouble. Sunday afternoon she grew worse and during a severe electrical storm, she became frightened at the loud peels of thunder and expired in a very short time.

Mrs. Mendenhall will be remembered as the brother of Clarkson Reynolds, who died suddenly three weeks ago last Sunday, while in a buggy, traveling from Morristown to Irvington, of organic heart trouble. Mrs. Mendenhall was a widow, her husband having passed away several years ago. She has no immediate relatives.

GETS SCHOLARSHIP.

Miss Zelah Hardin, a member of this year's graduating class, who had planned to go to Terre Haute yesterday to enter normal school, preparatory to teaching next year, has received word that she got a scholarship to Earlham College. She will wait until next year and attend school there. Her sister, Miss Minnie, went to Terre Haute yesterday and will attend normal.

MANY MISHAPS,
NO ONE IS HURT

One Machine Runs Into Ditch, One Into Pole and Another Into Sausage Stand.

LON GINN IN TWO ACCIDENTS

Is Thrown Out and Suffers Bruises
in One—C. M. George Participates.

Automobile accidents were common the latter part of the week but fortunately no one was injured. One auto was run into the ditch, when the driver became excited. Another was driven into a telephone pole with great force and still another was backed into a sausage stand on the corner, causing considerable damage.

Saturday afternoon late, Lon Ginn attempted to crank his machine while it was in gear. The action caused the auto to reverse and it backed into Jimmie Adams' sausage stand in front of the Rush County National bank. Mr. Ginn reached the steering wheel in time to shut off the power and keep the auto from crashing into the bank window. The sausage stand was almost demolished.

Lon Ginn participated in another auto accident Friday evening, which resulted a bit more disastrously for him. He and his brother-in-law, Ryce Bishop, were riding in Bishop's big Stoddard-Dayton car in North Main street, when the car crashed into a telephone pole and almost demolished the front end of the car. The radiator, one fender, wind shield and lamps were badly battered and bent. The car almost cut through the pole.

Mr. Ginn was riding on the running board, attempting to find the cause for a squeak in the mechanism of the machine. When he thought he had discovered it, he called Ryce Bishop's attention to it. Young Bishop, who was driving the car, stooped over and lost control of the wheel. The auto dashed into the pole and his head was run into the wind shield, causing the glass to break. Mr. Ginn was hurled through the air and suffered a few slight bruises on his shoulder. Mr. Bishop was not badly hurt.

About the same time that evening another auto accident happened on the south pike between here and New Salem. County Superintendent C. M. George attempted to pass a car driven by Otto Williams of the Case Lumber Company, when Mr. Williams became excited and ran the car into the ditch. Fortunately there was no grade at that point and the auto did not turn turtle. The car ran into a wire fence and no damage was done with the exception of the smashing of a lamp. The five occupants of the machine were uninjured. The fact that Mr. Williams was not driving the car more than nine miles an hour, so he says, is probably the reason for the accident being no more serious than it was.

Mr. George says that he was running fourteen or fifteen miles an hour and that he wished to pass the Williams car. He blew his horn, but when the larger car failed to turn out, he started around the right side when he thought there was enough room. Just as Mr. George's car was even with the other machine, the driver seemed to become excited and ran the car directly into the ditch, so Mr. George says.

ATTEND BANQUET.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Casady, Miss Flossie Goodbar, Nevil Phelps of this city attended the banquet and meeting of the Prudential agents at Richmond last week. A several course banquet was served and a general good time was had, according to the local agents who attended.

GETS DIVORCE.

New Castle Courier: Oma Green of Knightstown was granted a divorce Saturday. Her husband married her to escape a criminal prosecution; the child was born and has since died. Her husband lived with her but one day. The plaintiff is only fifteen years at the present time.
